

Giant Deckchairs

Congratulations on buying your Giant Deckchair. Thank you for supporting our company.

Here are a few tips to prolong the good times you'll have with your new furniture.

Maintenance

- Though the materials used are designed to be outside, keeping the Giant Deckchair inside or undercover when not in use will extend its life. Over time the preservative in the timber will fade so some extra treatment may be needed in the future. Check the chair before use for any general wear and tear, particularly in the seating area.
- Regularly collapsing the Giant Deckchair may result in the bolts becoming loose. Check them often to see if they are still tight with a 17mm socket.
- Over time the screws can become loose, ensure they are secure before each use.
- Wood is a natural product and absorbs moisture from the surrounding air so external timbers tend to shrink when dry and exhibit cracks. When they get wet they will expand and the cracks will close.
- Fabric is more susceptible to wear especially in high traffic locations and where open to the elements for prolonged periods.
- Hose down regularly with fresh water and a gentle brush to help remove any surface dust or dirt. This prevents any dirt becoming ingrained in the weave of the fabric. For more ingrained dirt or stains use warm water below 30°C and a soft soap solution, ensuring you rinse it thoroughly. Always allow it to dry naturally. Do not wash the fabric with a jet or pressure washer or use any chlorine or bleach based product. For best results we recommend re-proofing the fabric after cleaning.
- Before placing the chair into storage it should be cleaned then dried naturally to prevent mould and mildew.

Safety

- Children should always be supervised by an adult.
- We strongly suggest not exceeding the weight limit of 250kg e.g. 3 medium sized adults.
- Take care not to catch hands/fingers in the hinges when folding or unfolding the chair.
- Ensure the chair is unfolded, stowed and locked correctly, and rests on a firm level base.
- The Giant Deckchair is a chair and not a climbing frame, slide or trampoline. It is intended to be used whilst relaxing, use it accordingly.
- Windy conditions will increase the wear on the fabric and we would advise that the Giant Deckchair is folded in adverse weather conditions. Though precautions have been taken to reduce the fabric rubbing on the frame, we advise collapsing the chair flat to prevent tearing when it's not in use.
- Be aware that the chair can blow over in high winds. This could result in damage to the Giant Deckchair or anyone nearby.
- We've made every effort to ensure our products are built to a high standard, though as there are a lot of variables out of our control we can't offer any guarantee how long our products will last.
